"What's the use of being an old mald if you can't do something!" she said to herself as a sort of rallying cry to her own nerves. Such gather-ing of one's courage is not uncommon; it is, in unusual circumstances, to many men and to most women. It does not as a rule apply to professional or accustomed duties. To the soldier, the lawyer, 2 the engineer, the man of commerce, each of such, the faculties which wait on the intelligence are always braced by behit are always braced by habit. And to the woman in her hours of social selfconsciousness the same applies. When a woman puts on her best frock she is armed and ready as completely as is the cavalry man with the thunder of the squadron behind him; as the artil-lery man when "Acthop!" has been sounded. Ordinarily Miss Judith was equal to all demands made on her; now she was engaging in a matter in which she did not thoroughly underwhich she did not thoroughly understand either the purpose or the end. Now she spoke:

"Have you been staying long in New York Mr. Hardy?" At the moment Athlyne was talking with his hostess and did not seem to hear but Joy heard and said gently: "Mr. Hardy!" He turned suddenly red, even to his

His ears had been to the music of Joy's voice, and he did not wake at once to the less welcome sound. Partly it was of course due to the fact that as yet he had heard but little of Aunt Judy's speech; her intentional silence had a drawback as well as an advantage. He stopped his explanation just in time to save suspicion from the rest of the family, but not from Judy, who having an intention of her own was alert to everything. She made a mental note to be afterwards excoginated: "I didnot?" what?" She repeated the question. He an-

But until that . . that accident I had no such knowledge. I must not say that 'happy' accident for it was fraught with such danger to one whom you hold dear. But, that apart, it was a happy accident to me that has given me the opportunity of making friends whom I already value so highly! This was of the world's august.

When the ladies had gone, he and his host had a long chat over their cigars. He was now more at ease, and as the conversation was all about sports and passes matters in which he was norses, matters in which he was thoroughly at home, he could speak more freely and more naturally than he had yet done. There was not any personal element which would require him to be on guard and so cause conhim to be on guard and so cause con-straint. The result was that Colonel Ogilvie got quite over his stiffness and began to warm to his genial influence. It was quite a sign of his existing attitude that he now took on himself to say just what he had reprehended in his daughter:

"I am really sorry you can't come on the Graphic with us. It would on the Graphic with us. It would make the voyage a new pleasure for us all!" As he spoke he took the young man's arm in a most friendly way; and to Joy's secret delight, they came in this wise into the drawing-

CHAPTER VII. A Discussion

On reflection Lord Athlyne was glad that circumstances had not allowed him to trayel on the Graphic with his new friends. At first he felt horribly disappointed; as if Fate had in a measure checkmated him. Had he known that the Oglivies were to trave on the White Star boat he could have easily arranged his plans. The voyage easily arranged his plans. The voyage would in some ways—one way—have been delightful. Well he knew that: but as he should have to keep up his alias he would have been in a perpetual state of anxiety and humiliation. This feeling made it easier for him therefore to come to a definite conclusion regarding his journey home: he would keep to himself, as far as possible, during the journey and try to get at the earliest possible moment out of his present humiliating position. Under any ordinary circumstances he More than 170 tons of human hair, most of it from China, are annually imported into France, where it is made up for use in all parts of the world.

the Drive he had seen Joy he had thought her a beautiful girl. The act of rescuing her had made her of the supremest interest to him. But it was not till he had sat beside her and looked into her eyes that he felt that love had come. No man could look into those beautiful eyes and remain un-touched. But this man, heart-hungry and naturally suspectible after some years of campaigning, fell madly in love. His very soul had gone down in-to the depths of those unfathomable eyes, and come back purified and sweetened—like the smoke drawn through the rose-water of hookah. Every instant that he sat beside her the spell grew upon him. Joy was a woman in whom the sex—instinct was your etrong. She was woman all over. very strong. She was woman all over; type of woman who seems to draw man to her as the magnet draws the steel. Athlyne was a very masculine person and therefore peculiarly sensi-tive to the influence. That deep thinking young madman who committee suicide at twenty-three, Otto Weining er, was probably right in that wonderful guess of his as to the probably solution of the problem of sex. All men and all women, according to him have in themselves the cells of both sexes; and the accredited masculinity or femininity of the individual is de-termined by the multiplication and de-velopment of these cells. Thus the ideal man is entirely or almost entirely masculine, and the ideal woman is en-tirely or almost entirely feminine. Each individual must have a preponderance be it ever so little, of the cells of its own sex; and the attraction of each in own sex; and the attraction of each individual to the other sex depends upon its place in the scale between the highest and the lowest grade of sex. The most masculine man drews the most feminine woman, and vice versa; and so down the scale till close to the border line is the great mass of persons who, having only development of a few of the qualities of sex, are easily satisfied to mate with any one. This are content to make marriages and even liaisons, which others, higher he strung, are actually unable to under As yet, of course, Joy being a young woman had not her power developed. Such an unconscious power takes in "No. Only a few days."

"Do you remain long?"
"I am sorry to say that I cannot I had promised myself a few days after grizzlies; but that has to be fore-I had promised myself a few days after grizzlies; but that has to be foregone for the present. Something has happened which requires my going back at once. But I hope to renew my visit before long." He was pleased with himself for the verbal accuracy of the statement and this reassured him.

"What a pity you have to give up your hunting trip," said Colonel Ogilvie, heartily. "You would find it really excellent sport. I haven't had any of it for twenty years; but I'd dearly like to have another 'urn at it if I could."

"What boat do you go by?" asked Mrs. Ogilvie.

"By the French boat. The Mignon of the which salls on Saturday." He answered with confidence for he had spent a quarter of an hour looking it up before he had dressed; and had already posted a letter to the office asking to have the best cabin open kept for him.

"What a pity," said Joy. "We are going on the Graphic on the Wednesday after; you might have come with us." She colored up as she became conscicus of the dead silence—lasting for a few seconds—of the rest of the going on the Graphic on the Wednesday after; you might have come with us." "Li Athlyne hastened to set matters right, as well as he could. He knew from his own bringing up that such a request should come rather from the parents than from the girl herself; but he understood and tried to protect her. He addressed himself therefore to Mrs. Ogilvie and not her daughter as he spoke.

Detroit, Mich.—"For more than ten years I suffered with all the troubles women have. I had one doctor after another without receiving any benefit. They advised an operation, but I refused to have one. My body and feet were swollen, caused by my female trouble. I was very nervous, had no appetite, indigestion and heart trouble.

"About six months ago I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and in six weeks I was well and strong.

well and strong.

"I have had the pleasure of seeing five friends made well by this medicine, and I want to say to all suffering women take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman is in doubt she can write to me and I shall be most happy to give her all the information I can."—Mrs. Freida Rosenau, 554 Meldrum Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Science in surgery and electricity has advanced much in the past 30 years, but the treatment of disease by the old fashioned roots and herbs method has never been improved upon. The fact that this leader of them all-Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—is to-day the largest seller of any similar medicine in the world, is proof positive of its value and superiority, for with all our enterprise and advertising we could not keep fooling the people for 30 years. Merit and merit alone is what has made Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the standard medicine for treating diseases peculiar to women.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit. If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.
